

Conflict is Complex and Challenging...

Collaborate recognise that there are no simple answers, no quick fixes and there is definitely no magic wand. We recognise that the resolution of conflict through open dialogue and honest debate such as that achieved in mediation can lead to more sustainable relationships within workplaces and communities

Working with conflict can be stressful and painful for all parties and coming to mediation can be a difficult decision. However, we believe that mediation, when applied sensitively and appropriately, can make a real difference to people's lives

by offering all parties the chance to work together to find a realistic and constructive resolution to their conflict.

What is Mediation?

Mediation is a process where the parties agree to listen and talk to each other in a manner that affords civility and respect to one another.

The Mediator's role is to assist that process and not to be tempted to take one side or the other. The Mediator has no right to make a decision on who or what is right in relation to the case or outcome. His or her job is to take responsibility for the process of mediation while the participants collectively take responsibility for the outcome.

Why choose Mediation?

Unresolved conflict costs a lot more than just money.

2Collaborate workplace mediation services resolve complex and challenging disputes swiftly, effectively and with as little disruption as possible

. Our expert and experienced mediators work with all parties in a dispute to establish their underlying needs and interests, encourage dialogue and ultimately,

facilitate an agreed resolution

Experience has shown us that entrenched positions can be adopted when problems are overlooked or inflamed, whereas a fully trained and skilled mediator can help your employees move towards a more constructive and satisfactory resolution.

We resolve disputes referred to us typically involving complex issues such as:

- Grievances
- Complaints
- Allegations of bullying and harassment.

Benefits of Mediation

Mediation has many benefits – not just for the parties but for their teams, managers and employers:

1. Mediation places responsibility for the resolution of a dispute directly with the parties

2. Mediation creates a safe place for all sides to have their say and to be heard.

3. Mediation stops disputes escalating out of control.

4. Mediation reduces the stress and anxiety commonly associated with conflict.

5. Mediation reduces the cost of conflict and reduces the risk of litigation.
6. Mediation contributes to a more harmonious and productive working environment.

What cases are suitable for Mediation?

Serious disagreements between staff, allegations of bullying or other unacceptable behaviour, change management issues, individual and collective employment disputes are among the issues we can help with.

How are organisations using mediation?

Many employers now have mediation written into their policies and use mediators to seek a formal remedy to workplace disputes. Whilst simplicity is key, each element of mediation requires great care and professionalism to ensure that the process is effective.
